HOW CLEVER THIEVES

--- IN GEM-LADEN KIMBERLY, SOUTH AFRICA---

STEAL BIG DIAMONDS

Queer Story of How a Man Sewed Up Valuable Stones in the Hide of His Pet Dane---Hollow Boot Heels a Good Place.

INGENIOUS NATIVES - SMUGGLE A HOW FORTUNE.

An Enterprising Man, Who Wanted to Buy the Cemetery Because He Discovered Diamonds in the Bodies of the Negroes Who Were Buried There.

In these days of Boer and British warfare, anything concerning South Africa is of interest to the public. Before hostilities there were probably more ingenious thieves in Kimberley than in any two cities of its size on the globe, and they were all after diamonds, too.

One day a Frenchman appeared at Kimberley. He wore boots fitted with Parisian beels, two inches or more in height. A trifling matter of being seen talking very confidentially with a native woman directed attention to him. His boot heels were hollow and filled with diamonds.

A man well known about Kimberley used to go to Europe three or four times a year. He always had a magnificent Great Dane with him. One night at a Kimberley club, while the master was playing billiards. his dog kept digging at himself with his hind leg. On looking at the sore spot a long slit was found in the dog's skin sewn with silk. The threads were cut and out dropped a diamond. When the dog's hair was shaved off it was found that his body was literally covered with the scars of incisions in which diamonds had been placed and smuggled out of the country.

A peculiar story is told how a very rich old Boer, whose daughter was about to marry, had a very large yellow diamond worth $25,000 cut and polished for a present. The stone was placed in a metal clip attached to a long steel wire, which was stuck in the centre of the dining table during the feast. They were having a jolly time when all at once the stone was missed. Every one was searched, but it couldn't be found.

Some one suggested that possibly the pet ostrich of the girl, which had been in and out of the room a dozen times, had swallowed it. The bird was worth $4,000. A doctor suggested opening the gizzard, and taking the chance of the bird's living. This was done, and the bird lived. But the strong gastric juices of the stomach of the creature which thrives on scissors, nails and stones had so affected the surface of the stone that it was simply honeycombed, and on being recut and polished was not worth more than twothirds the original amount.

The natives employed in the mines are compelled to work naked to prevent them from concealing and carrying away the rich booty, but even with that precaution it is impossible to stop robbery. Working with pick and shovel, a native breaks a piece of earth down which shows a stone somewhere in the break, and to secure this all his energies are turned. He changes his footing for the next stroke, puts his foot over the diamond, and, without losing time and attracting attention in any way, wriggles that stone loose, picks it up with his toes, and waits until he sees a chance to catch it in his hand and pass it to his mouth, ear, or any part of his body which will hide it till he leaves the mineat night. It nothing else can be done, he swallows it. But these tiny, sharp-edged stones cut like glass, and fatal niceration is very common among the negroes, the cause of death being put down to fever, until one day the problem was mines had two native servants, one of whom made money enough to retire, and went up country to found a home by buying a wife. The remaining servant stayed on, until one day a large and valuable uncut diamond vanished, and the most exhaustive search falled to reveal the hiding place. The servant was under suspicion, but nothing could be proven against

Later his remaining native servant died, and later still word came from the married native that if the master wished to find his diamond he must find his dead servant. In the meantime his dead servant had been taken to the native cemetery, rolled up in a blanket or a piece of cloth and put in a shallow grave.

With a pick and shovel he dug up several bodies and examined them for the missing stone. The next day he went to the head municipal officer of Kimberly and wanted to buy the cemetery. The truth of the matter was that he had examined nine bodies and found diamonds in every one.

The cemetery wasn't sold, but it was well worked.

A POLICEMAN OF ST. LOUIS, MO., HAS A CLOSE CALL.

Three Bullets at Short Range Come His Way, and He Arrested the Man Who Tried to Kill Him---Heroic Ranch Girl of Arizona. Leader of Cowboys.

There is a man out in Springer, N. M., who was once [I have taken the POLICE GAZETTE for some time and hanged, but he survived the ordeal, and he is now a law-abiding citizen. He recently told all about his experiences on the business end of a rope. It was in 1887, when he was locked up in the Springer jail, that five masked men broke in. They were after him.

"I went with them," he says, "and at the jail door I began to curse their interference, when one of them put the muzzie of his pistol to my ear and said: 'Keep still, damn you, or I'll put a bullet through you.' I recognized him by his voice and knew that he would do it, and I kept still. A little further on we came to a telegraph pole. From the cross-bar swung a new rope, On one end was a slip noose. Ranch Girl Leads Cowboys.

A detachment of cavalry from Fort Grant, Ariz., is in pursuit of a band of Indians, and a young ranch woman is leading a band of cowboys on the same mission. A short time ago the Indians attacked a man named J. D. Mack in Pinery Canyon.

He was left for dead, and when the Indians left he dragged himself to the ranch owned by a young woman four miles away.

He told her what had happened and she mounted a fleet horse and rode at once to Fort Grant, where she notified the army officers. A detachment of troops was sent at once to the scene of the shooting, guided by the girl, who rode with the soldiers as far as her ranch. There she organized a band of cowboys, and, herself assuming command, the party took the trail.

New York United Clubs Arrange

AN EXPERIMENT

Interesting Gossip of the Alleys and Rollers From Many States.

At this time of the year receipts of bowling alleys located in cities are commencing to dwindle and remind the owners that the season is approaching when a straggler now and then will be all the trade articipated. The average roller is a bicycle rider or devoted to outdoor sports of some kind, and the warm weather terminates his bowling career for the year, with the exception of a few games now and then at some summer resort. He rarely devotes any time to this winter pastime during the summer. A large attendance is anticipated at the international tourney, to be held under the auspices of the New York United Bowling Clubs, and it remains to be seen how a contest of this kind will be appreciated in July.

SUPPLES AND POPP DRAW.

At Milwaukee, Wis., on April 17, "Curley" Supples of Buffalo, and Jim Popp of Canada, fought six fast rounds to a draw before the Badger Athletic Club. The fighting was very fast from the second round to the end of the bout, both men doing some clever blocking and footwork. Supples finished a little the fresher. *********

HE IS A BRAVE OFFICER.

For unusual heroism, Policeman William J. Hennessey, of the Adams street station, Brooklyn Borough N. Y., received a high compliment recently, and it is very likely he will eventually be the recipient of a handsome medal. When a fire broke out at 342 Atlantic avenue he saw Martin Olsen, a saloonkeeper, at a second-story with his three children. He told the father to drop the children, and his order being obeyed he caught each as it fell. Then he climbed to an extension in the rear of the saloon and assisted four other persons to safety.

Hennessey is young, stalwart and good-looking, and is given an excellent reputation by his commanding

"MYSTERIOUS BILLY" SMITH

IN A FIGHT FOR THE WELTERWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

KNOCKED OUT BY MATTHEWS

A Hurricane Battle, in Which Both Men Were Severely Punished, Suddenly Brought to an Interesting Conclusion.

ANOTHER FAVORITE IN THE BETTING ADDED TO THE LIST.

Looked Like Anybody's Fight When the Last Round Began---Weighed 142 Pounds at the Ringside --- Danny Duane Won the Preliminary.

It comes to every fighter, sooner or later; a man may . go on for years knocking opponents down and out like pins on a bowling alley, but if he stays in the game long enough the inevitable will come, and the mistake of believing one's selt proof against the quieting influence of the knock-out thump is made convincingly apparent. This happened to "Mysterious Billy" Smith at the Broadway Athletic Club, New York, on April 17, when he fought and was knocked out by Matty Matthews, of New York, for the title of welterweight champion of the world.

It was the first time in his long and meritorious career that this had happened to Smith. He had fought the shiftiest, cleverest and hardest hitting men in his class, lost decisions on points and on fouls, but never before had he experienced being lulled to sleep by the soothing influence of a soak on the jaw, and he has to console him now the knowledge which he imparted to other poor unfortunates who fell beneath the powerful effects of a right-hand wallop on the point.

The battle was an extremely interesting one right up to the end, which came in the nineteenth round. It was not a clever fight, and neither man wasted anything in sparring or learning fancy steps, but had both hands in motion trying to reach the right spot from the first round. The finish came like a cloudburst from a clear sky-as both men seemed able to go on indefinitely, notwithstanding the hurricane pace they had setwhen the knock-out came.

It would be difficult to say to whom the honors belonged at the conclusion of the eighteenth round. The fighting up to that point had been fairly even, one man having an advantage in one round only to be smothered in the next. Both men had withstood punches hard enough to put any ordinary fighter away, and the big crowd present had settled Itself in the conviction that the referee would have to pick the winner. Neither had shown marked signs of distress at any stage, despite the fact that both had been jarred from head to heel time and again.

Matthews' persistent efforts on the face had Smith bleeding from the mouth early in the battle, and a lump over his left eye showed Matty's handlwork with his right.

Matthews' body showed the terrific pounding that Smith had administered to the lower works, while a lump as big as a walnut on his right cheek gave evidence of fre-

Smith's defeat added another to the long string of betting favorites that have gone down in the ring in the last twelve months. The sports were betting all the way from 100 to 60 to 2 to 1 that Smith would beat Matthews. And the form of the two men when they last met, about two years ago, justified their confidence. But they did not take into consideration that Matthews has grown bigger and stronger since that

The battle involved the title of welterweight champion of the world, a title which Smith held by virtue of Tommy Ryan's inability to make the prescribed weight and Smith's victory over Frank McConnell, of San Francisco, when they fought for the title. Matthews acquired the title of 138-pound champion when he defeated Bobby Dobbs, who had beaten Dick Burge, the English champion, and holder of it. Smith and Matthews weighed in at 142 pounds ringside.

In the ring the former was attended by Charlie O'Rrien, Kid McPartland, Mike Gallagher and Billy Needham. Johnny Dunn, Billy Roberts and Peter Burke were in Matthews' corner. Matthews wore heavy bandages, while Smith's hands were wound with light tape. The judges were dispensed with, and Charlie White was the referee. Straight Queensberry rules was the order of fighting.

The fight began with Matthews trying a left lead to the face which Smith countered. Matty shoved two more lefts to the face, but just escaped a vicious right lunge. Smith was more successful a moment later, as he put a right over to the jaw. Matty was forced to the heards as he tried to get close to avoid Billy's incoming left. Matty put two swinging lefts to the face in the second, and Smith jolted the right to the body at

Matthews had the better of the long range work in third round, but Smith more than evened matters by Matthews stepped in at half-arm range and again let go his right. Smith went down with a thud and was still dead to the world at the end of the referee's count. Time of round, twenty-eight seconds. The preliminary was a twelve-round affair between Whitey Lester, of Philadelphia, and Dan Duane, of Brooklyn, at 130 pounds. It went the limit, but it was Duane's fight from the first bell. Duane had his man bruised and bleeding as early as the third round, but by steady defensive work and by frequently taking the floor to avoid Duane's rushes Lester escaped a knockdown till the eleventh.

DOWNEY HAS A SOLAR PLEXUS,

A left-hand solar piexus blow was the cause of Jack Downey's undoing when he fought Tim Kearns at the Hercules Club in Brooklyn, N. Y., on April 16. Downey went to the canvas in the tenth round and for fully five minutes his attendants dallied with restoratives in an effort to bring him back to consciousness, It wasn't a case of all "pork chops" with Kearns either, for he was badly punished before the bout was finished, and his nose, already sore and disfigured from an operation, was pounded into a shapeless mass. Downey used his usual rushing tactics at the beginning of the first round. Kearns fought entirely on the defensive until the second, when he dashed in with a victous left that landed squarely on Downey's chin. Jack fell like a log and stayed on his knees ten seconds. He rushed as he arose and sent a straight right against Tim's sore nose. Another right in the same place were rooting for Jack took heart. In the third round a right swing knocked Kearns down, He jumped up quickly and rushing in swung his left to the stomach. It doubled Downey up and he hung on to Kearns desperately to save himself. Downey knew that Kearns had a silver tube in his nose as a result of a recent surgical operation and he applied himself solely to trying to knock that tube out. He nearly succeeded and at the end of the fifth round Tim's nose was in a frightful condition.

Meantime Kearns had been ripping his left into

for a finishing touch. It came a moment later. CHALLENGES FROM ASPIRING SPORTS

vicious infighting. Matty slammed in two long lefts in the fourth, and Smith, stepping in close, kept up a steady tattoo on the ribs. Smith forced Matty into a knocked the injured nose out of shape and those who corner and smothered him with right and left hooks on The body. As they broke away to the centre again Matthews plastered the jaw with a hard right, forcing Smith to another clinch. Matty got both hands in motion in the fith, and reached Smith hard and often. Smith kept up his fierce body play, ripping his left to the stomach at full range and jumping in with right drives to the heart. They broke about even in the sixth round, but Smith had the seventh by a good margin. Matthews was forced to a corner under a two-handed drive, and as

As Smith rushed he reached the jaw with a full-range right that shook Matthews to his shoe-

Matthews shifted the deal in the ninth. He went in under full sail, putting three successive rights to the jaw, and put the "Mysterious One" on the defensive. More even fighting marked the tenth.

The eleventh and twelfth rounds furnished the fastest fighting ever seen in any ring. They stood close and slammed in rights and lefts at top speed, both playing for the law and seldom missing the mark. Both were were willing to mix it. Four strong arms swung with clock-like regularity, and both men were winded from the fast work as they went to their corners at the end of the twelfth.

Smith took another lead in the fifteenth, plastering the jaw with the right, one of which put Matthews down. Smith was staggered by two well-directed right-handers in the seventeenth round, but Matty was quickly checked with a wicked left-hander in the stomach.

They peppered away at each other in the eighteenth round at a slashing pace, both slugging in the hope of reaching a vulnerable point. It was Matthews good fortune to land one. They came up strong for the nineteenth round, both seemingly able to go on all night. They hardly had got their hands up when Matthews threw a right over to the jaw. The blow dezed Smith, and Matthews, seeing his weakness, set himself

Bartender Wasn't Acquainted With His New Boss, That's All.

In the realm of electric light and retired pugilists on upper Broadway it is reported that "Kid" McCoy was "knocked out" the other afternoon. The "Kid" indignantly denies this, and also the story that it took a liberal application of cosmetics under his eyes to give him a presentable appearance, but the fact remains that a bartender who lately joined his forces at Broadway and Fortieth street is looking for another job.

According to the story told, a bartender with a long right arm and plenty of power back of it obtained employment on Friday in McCoy's saloon, but it was not until the following day that he first met his employer. He was serving a cartman named Peters under protest when McCov entered. The pugilist was displeased with the boisterous manner of the cartman, and, without a word, took him by the collar and was struggling with him to throw him into the street, when the bartender. Indignant at what he supposed to be a stranger undertaking the responsible job of "bouncer," jumped over the bar and floored McCoy with a right swing between the eyes.

What happened afterward is not known, but the fact that another bartender is doing the mixing and that the "Kid" wears a sinister smile when spoken to of the occurrence argues ill for the man with the long arm and power back of it

"BUNCO BILL" LANDS JOE WALCOTT. The Black Fighter Gets Up Against "The Old Thing."

Darktown is laughing at an experience which Joe Walcott had recently in Ballimore, Md., during his sojourn there to fight Dick Moore. He acted the part of a good Samaritan, and consequently is now mourning the loss of a five-dollar bill. Walcott was walking down Druid Hill avenue when a darky approached him and said:

'Hello, Johnson, how are you?' "Mr name ain't Johnson," replied Joe.

"Oh, yes it is," said the stranger. "I met you in London." "Nebber bin to Loudon. My name's Walcott, and I jest confrom New York."

The stranger then disappeared. After he had walked a couple of ore squares Walcott was approached by Darkey No. 2.

"Hello, Jee," be said.

"Who are you?" asked the pugilist.
"Oh, we met in New York," said the man.

"Oh, I meet so many people I can't remember you," answered

The stranger then told a pitiful tale of a sick wife and wound up by borrowing $5 from Walcott. When Walcott reached the Eureka Athletic Club he told his story and was immediately given the

GOFF WAS KNOCKED OUT QUICK.

Charley Goff, Billy Madden's middleweight, didn't last long in front of Billy Hanrahan, a recent graduate from the amateur ranks They fought at the Greenwood Club, Brooklyn, on April 14, and Haurahan knocked out Goff with one punch-a right swing on the jaw — after forty - five seconds of fighting. Haurahan and Goff were have boxed twenty rounds at catchweights.

Two to one on G.ff was the ruling odds, which most people indignantly refused.

Gus Ruhlin and Billy Madden, Goff's handlers, advised their man to go right in at the start, and a greater mistake they never made.

Hanrahan followed Goff to his corner and swing, which landed flush on the jaw, and dropped Goff like a log. Goff arcse on the count of nine, but went to his hands and knees from another swing. Ruhlin saw his man had no chance and rushed into the ring and pulled Goff to his corner. In the first preliminary

FOUGHT ON THE FLOOR.

Thomas and Lester Both Broke the Rules, but Former Got the Verdict.

Hartford, Conn., was the scene of some lively doings at the Nutmeg Athletic Club on April 13. Andy Daly of Boston went two rounds with Mose King of New London. Daly received the decision, altough a draw was looked for. John Curran of Springfield knocked out lke Griffin of the same place in the third round In the fourth round of the go between "Kid" Thomas of New York and "Whitey" Lester of Philadelphia the referee stopped the bout when both men were rolling on the floor and pounding each other. He gave the decision to Thomas. Both should have been disqualified. The decision of the referee, Captain Bill Daly o Boston, was regarded as unfair by the spectators.

TERRY AND TIGER

AT "FAIRY BANK"

Visits the Troy Aerie of Eagles and is Fined.

$1,300 OF HIS ROLL MELTS

In An Effort to Win Out the Four Bits Penalty for Being Late.

Terry McGovern, the famous little fighter, talks of having a guardian appointed for his bank-rell. He says he can take care of all the aspirants for his championship honors, but when it comes to looking out for the frog-skins he believes he will have to delegate that important function to some one better qualified than himself.

To make a long story short little Terry has had his fingers twisted in a short, sharp and decisive bout with the tiger. One night last week he finished an ongagement as a Troy, N. Y., the-aire, and, finding time hanging heavily on his hands, dropped in on an Aerie of Eagles recently organized in that city. The Eagles were not slow in recognizing a kindred spirit, for Terry is a good brother of New York Aerie No. 40, and all went well until the featherweight left the room for a moment. Upon his return he found he had an enormous fine of 50 cents assessed against aim. Of sourse no one could meet such an obligation on short notice and Terry made proposals to work out the fine by singing "The Blow Almost Kilicd Pather." This was promptly turned down and Mc-Govern secured an extension for a few minutes until he could go out and held up some one.

Once out in the open he thought a "fairy" bank a good propor tion, and, locating one, made a left jab at an eight spot, but feil short. Nothing daunted, he took on a few more, but could not get a decision. Then his blood got theroughly aroused and he went in to finish the tiger in short order. He would land just one plexus blow and possibly one on the point of the jaw, and all would be over but the rubbing down.

But the tiger side stepped, cross-countered and blocked with devillsh ingenuity. Not once did Terry's mit find him. Every lead was countered and the $100 bills were unwinding from the bantam's roll like tape on a ticker when something is decidedly doing on the Street.

McGovern was willing to call it a draw and divide the purse in the sixteenth round, but took a chance and went on again, though decidedly groggy. This proved as much the tiger's as any of its predecessors and the bantam sank down in his corner for good.

After setting them up all around he went out and inspected his roll. He weighed less by $1,300 than whon he entered the ring and the fifty cents was still owed.

FOUGHT FIFTY-ONE HOT ROUNDS. Lively Milling at the Pelican Club's Weekly Session.

At the Pelican Club of Brooklyn, N. Y., on April 14, there was no end of good fighting. In the star bout of fifteen rounds at 115 pounds, Billy Donnelly and Young Hines went at it furiously from the bell. Hines' seconds threw up the sponge in the thirteenth round. The other bouts resulted as follows:

Six rounds at 118 pounds-"Kid" Wein beat Terry Fox.

Ten rounds at 130 pounds-Eddie Kelly knocked out Billy Doyle Ten rounds at 125 pounds-"Nigger" McAuley knocked out Jos

HAMILTON BUTTED GARDNER.

At Wheeling, W. Va., on April 9 the Metropolitan Club gave a boxing show, the principal event being a twenty-round go between Oscar Gardner and Jack Hamilton. It was called a draw by the referee, P. These two have been together no less than four times. Gardner once got a decision and Hamilton got the

REPEAL OF HORTON LAW

MAY GO INTO EFFECT IN

NEW YORK CITY ON MAY 1

Jeffries and Corbett Deplore the Fact and Each Says He is Ready to Fight Now if Necessary.

NEW CLUBS IN OTHER STATES PREPARE FOR BUSINESS.

Fistiana and Thespia in a Matrimonial Bout---Jack Grace at His Old Tricks---Fitzsimmons Has Plenty of Matches..

While the promoters of boxing were chagrined over the repeal of the Horton law, they found some solace in the provision which gave them until Sept. 1 to bring matters to a fitting conclusion by de-ciding a half a dozen big championship battles. If the present attitude of the Greater New York Police Commission is maintained, boxing matters will be brought to a summary ending on May 1.

The feeling of the Police Commissioners on the boxing subject was brought to light one day last week when the new Seaside Sporting Club, of Coney Island, applied for the customary license. The Commissioners did not hesitate to refuse it, and did so in such a manner as to foreshadow the course which will be pursued when the various clubs now operating in Greater New York apply on May 1 for a renewal of their permits. Four Commissioners comprise the Board. Of these, Mr. Sexton is in favor of granting the licenses, Mr. Abell is non-committal. President York, of the Board, did not mince matters, and plainly stated that no more licenses would be granted.

"If boxing is illegal on Sept. 1, it is equally illegal May 1. All boxing licenses expire, according to law, on the latter date. Personally I am glad to vote against the issuing of boxing permits, because I never did, nor do I now, believe that any such permit should be issued in New York city." Should the Commissioners again refuse to issue the desired permit to the Coney Island people, it is likely the club managers will take the matter into the courts and endeavor to force them by process of law to do so.

If the Police Commissioners carry out the threat to put an end to boxing on May 1 some changes in existing plans will have to be made in short order. Preparations for a series of bouts between leading pugilists of the world to take place between now and September have been under way, and as the officials of the Island club are believed to be on the best of terms with the municipal authorities it was feit that every bout announced would come off as scheduled. Nobody even questioned the club's 'ability to hold the bouts as planned. The first of these projected big affairs was the Corbett-Jeffries battle for the championship, scheduled for decision on May 11. This, of course, will be affected, and nobody deplores the existing situation more than the two fistic celebrities, who are now engaged in training for the contest.

When Corbett heard about the trouble, he could only

"I am sorry for anything that comes in to interfere with the conditions and date already settled on. But so far as I am concerned, it doesn't make any difference. Jeffries says he is in good shape now, so a little thing like an earlier date ought not to cut any figure

"As for me, unless this license business can be patched up and the fight go through on the date named, why, I say, fight before the license runs out. I'm willing to fight Jeffries the last week in April or next week, or even to-morrow."

Champion James J. Jeffries expressed his regret when told of the latest developments, and said:

"If we can't pull off the contest at the Coney Island Club I am perfectly willing to go anywhere in reason, even west to Carson City, where the fight can be pulled off without interference, if I must, in the old arena where Corbett met his Waterioo at the hands of the lanky Antipodean.

"But I much prefer the East, as I have been training faithfully at Loch Arbor for this match with Corbett and don't like the idea of breaking in on my work, now that I have got so well advanced in it. I hope, however, matters can be amicably settled. I, for one, will make any reasonable concession rather than disappoint the public."

Coincident with the prospect of boxing being stopped in New York State after Sept. 1, comes the news that Milwaukee is going to take a right lively interest in fistic affairs this fall, and that many of the most prominent thumpers in the land have been approached with offers to engage in bouts. There seems to be little doubt that the fights can be successfully pulled off. Mayor David S. Rose, who has been running Milwaukee as a wide-open town, has just been re-elected, and Charley Havenor, the financial man of the enterprise, who is a member of the Common Council and one of the mayor's lieutenants, is said to have arranged matters there with the police and city officials so that there will be no police interference. Havenor is well-to-do, and is fully capable of carrying the project

Fistiana and Thespia joined hands in wedlock one day last week when Joe Gans of Baltimore, the gentlemanly lightweight fighter, and Miss Madge Warren, a member of Williams and Walker's theatrical company, became man and wife. It was quite a happening in New York colored society and the "black 400" was represented in every degree of shade and color. The bride, who is young and tall, wore a bridal dress of steel gray, trimmed with cream-colored lace. The bridesmaid appeared in lavender, trimmed with old point lace. The bridegroom appeared in the conventional black Prince Albert coat, dark trousers and patent leather shoes.

The happy couple will not take a honeymoon trip, as Mrs. Gaus is under engagement to remain with the company until the end of the season, when she will retire from the stage.

Coy travelled together as boxing rivals, getting the coin as best they could. McCoy has Grace's name in his record several times.

Fitzsimmons isn't losing any sleep over his inability to get matches in the hig New York clubs, but is caimly biding his time picking up an easy thing or two until such time as the necessity for his services will make the magnates of the Metropolis unbend a little. He has plenty of work in prospect. The latter part of this month he meets big Ed. Dunkhorst in the Hercules Club; in June he will take on Gus Ruhlin, and in July a return bout with Jeffries is among the probabilities. This is a formidable list of engagements for a man who is barred from appearing in the vicinity of New York, and if the powers that be keep on shoving him into obscurity the same way, a few of the other heaviesare apt to get jealous of his dimness.

Billy Madden, the eminent Nestor of pugilistic managers, was prevailed upon to referee the Eddie Gardner-Dave Sullivan bont in Brooklyn the other night, and judging from reports of what occurred made quite a mess of it. Some of the alleged critics even went so far as to suggest that Madden's decision was influenced by some other motive than that of trying to do the right and square thing by everybody. I was glad to see the veteran get back at his traducers in this able manner:

"While I do not object to honest criticism, I certainly must protest against any statement that tends to injure my standing as a sporting man. I have been connected with the boxing game for thirty years, and during that time have never done a dishonest act. Because I properly interpreted the rules while I acted as referee of the Sullivan-Gardner contest, I have been accused of favoring Sullivan. This is untrue, and any fair-minded judge of boxing will uphold me in this statement."

The action of the New York State Legislature Joe received many telegrams of congratulation from Baltimore, while Mrs. Gans received many from her States where boxing is now a legalized form of sport.

THREE TERRIBLE TERRIERS.

Terry McGovern, His Manager Sam Harris and His Canine Assistant Made Up for Their Act.

Gans is about nineteen, and in appearance is anything but stagy. She looks more like a girl just out of school than a professional actor. She says she is not in love with the stage, and will be rather glad to retire and devote her life to making Joe happy. Her father accumulated a fortune in Cincinnati in a Turish bath business which he owns. Joe has saved up $10,000 for a rainy day.

It affords me pleasure to congratulate Joe and the partner of his joys and to wish them all kinds of luck, prosperity and happiness.

Frequent allusions of late in the English sporting papers to "Tom Broderick, the American fighter," urged me to make a few inquiries concerning the whereabouts of the original Tom Broderick, of Youkers, the only pugilist of that name now before the public, and it is needless to say I was not surprised to learn that he was not in England and never had been. Subsequent inquiry, however, elicited the information that Jack Grace, originally of New York, a lightweight boxer of unsavory reputation, is up to his old tricks. He has been posing for some time in and around London as Tom Broderick, who has an excellent record on this side. Grace got on a fight in England and made a poor showing-threw it up probably. Investigation was made in England and the truth was learned. Grace took part here in one or two bad looking fights that caused much adverse comment at the time. He is in bad repute in other parts of the country and it is not beyond the recollection of many old-time followers of ring happenings when he and "Kid" Mc-*****

McGOVERN COULDN'T PUT WHITE OUT.

Tommy White proved his cleverness in Chicago on April 17 by evading Terry McGovern's knockout punches for six rounds. He fought well finishing strong and had the best of the last round. The fight was at 130 pounds. White weighed about 126 pounds. McGovern did not, from appearances, have more than two or three pounds the worst of weights. By an agreement of the principals no decision was to be rendered if both men were on their feet at the end of the sixth round. McGovern would probably have received the decision if one had been rendered, as he was aggressive from start to fluish, White keeping very largely on the defensive. He at times took the aggressive and jabbed McGovern in the most clever manner with his left.

In the second round McGovern landed a hard right on White's eye, which bled badly throughout the fight. In the last round White landed jab after jab in McGovern's face and uppercut him repeatedly with the right. The crowd of eight thousand persons went wild at White's splendid showing, and the building rang with cheers at the end of every round. At the end of the fight the crowd cheered for White. The betting before the fight was 10 to 8 that White would not stay six

HEROES OF SAN JUAN DEFEATED.

A one-sided exhibition of indoor baseball was played on Wednesday night, April 16th, between the Twelfth and Seventy-first Regiment teams at the Twelfth's Armory, New York city. The Seventy-first team was badly handleapped by the illness of two of their best infield players, but nevertheless they played a strong uphili game. The feature of the game was the battery work of Huen and Schwarts, of the Seventy-first, although both were badly crippled by the season's schedule. It is a noteworthy fact that all the members of the Seventy-first team saw service at San Junn.

Discovered by the Chemist Fabrion, it quickly interested the great Scientist and Physician, Erdman, who developed it and proclaimed that marvelous action in Urethral Ailments which electrified the world.

At enormous expense Dr. C. J. Carter outstripped all competitors and secured exclusive control on the Western Continent for the St. James Association.

The great virtue in the method of application is its direct and positive action. No vile, drastic drugs to ruin the stomach and digestive system. ARE POPULAR DISTRIBUTED FREE:

Private Guide for Men

The 30th edition (revised) of my little book, "Three Classes of Men," is now ready, and will be mailed in plain, sealed envelope, to any part of the world, free of charge.

Over five million copies of this treatise have been distributed since the first edition appeared some years ago, marking, I believe, the largest circulation of any therapeutic work ever published. This little book was compiled by me to embody the proven results of my 30 years' experience as a procedure.

It is a guide to men, both single and married, offering much valuable advice and outlining a course to pursue for the greatest possible development of manhood, both physical and mental. It deals with private weaknesses which cannot, with propriety, be discussed in this paper. It tells that strength once dissipated may be regained by nature's treatment.

WITHOUT DRUGS

It tells of my success in the proper employment of the galvanic current of Electricity and how I discovered 25 years ago that an appliance was required which would give a continuous, mild current for seven or eight hours at a time.

This led me to construct a portable chain battery which the patient might apply himself, and started me in on a line of experiment that has developed by degrees, by 25 years of close practical study and application, into the construction of my present protected by patents. This I consider a perfect home self-treatment. The book describes it thoroughly. You wear it around your waist comfortably at night. It cures while you sleep, sending a pleasant, soothing stream of electricity through the weakened parts, curing in 60 to 90 days, often benefiting at once. Do not forget that this Belt is used by women as well as men for the treatment of Rheumatism in any part of the body, Lumbago, Kidney, Liver Disorders, etc., and in fact will cure aches, palns and weaknesses of any sort.

I give my personal attention to correspondents, and offer free advice at my office or by mail.

My system of symptom blanks enables me to diagnose cases perfectly, at any distance, though to those who live nearby a personal call will enable them to see the Belt in working order and test current. Over 6,000 unsolicited testimonials received during 1898. If too far to call, write for above book, which explains all.
